

Dylan Forsberg Editor / Photographer

As a former model myself, I know how frightening starting out in fashion can be. You're watched by thousands and constantly judged, thrown into odd positions and unfamiliar clothes... all at the mercy of the photographer or stylist. It's even easy to lose your own identity when assuming so many others. But every one of you I met was unique and beautiful in your own way - from those of you who are just entering high school, to those who are already booting guys in the chest. So try not to change too much, and whenever you're feeling insecure about yourself and how others perceive you, remember this photo of me, and to not give a fuck. Good luck, and don't let the industry make you cold.
